We Need Your Help A plan is afoot to restore / upgrade Elder Farm, especially the derelict B-Listed building / Fairfield Steadings, gifted to the people of Greater Govan by Lady Elder. Her concerns were the health and well-being of the community. The bottom line is that the building is in danger of being demolished and needs to be fixed. But what should be the end result? One or a Combination? Perhaps you have another idea to send us? Current options offered to us are :

- A Building School
- An Eco Community Centre
- A Catering School
- A Museum
- Facilities for Park Users
- A Combination of Any of All

Currently National Trust are looking into eco solutions for their properties – training in this field might give our local workers a kick start when the work comes in. Above we offer a few images including some views on what the building could look like to inspire your views. But what do you think would benefit the community as Lady Elder intended? Families, neighbours and friends are invited to fill in the questionnaire below - Ideas and comments are welcome – please add them to the back of this page, with any contact details if you wish to know more.
